ASK JEANNE

Dear Jeanne, What are you giving friends and family this holiday season? What are you buying for yourself? And what are you hoping to receive?
—Martina

DEAR MARTINA:
I usually acquire the most interesting presents on my travels, and this year was no exception. From the hand-knit toques I got at Aunt Maggie's Homespun studio in Woody Point, NL, to the "evil eye" silk scarves I picked up at Istanbul's Grand Bazaar, these eclectic gifts are touchstones for the trips I've been lucky enough to take.
Then there are gifts that have become tradition. I've been giving my girls cozy sleepwear on Christmas Eve since they were little. It's a real treat, looking forward to opening that first present—knowing full well it's pyjamas. This year, I went to Target for them and bought a pair for myself as well! (At $23, how could I resist?) I chose identical sets for the three of us: velvety grey tops and pale blue bottoms with little foxes on them.
Cashmere is such a treat this time of year, whether it's gloves or scarves or sweaters. The Lord & Taylor brand sold at Hudson's Bay is almost unbeatable. I'll stock up on cashmere gloves for $40, and maybe even cashmere infinity scarves for friends.
Because I love the notion of cozy footwear at Christmas (my dad was a slipper manufacturer, so I've got a soft spot in my heart for cozy feet!), I'll give friends pairs of Manitobah Mukluks or Ugg slippers. Nothing like slipping your feet into that kind of comfort after a long hard day in stilettos!
In terms of what I'll buy for myself, well, put me down for cashmere too—I'll likely get myself a sweater or two. I'm hoping my daughter Joey, who's coming home from the Yukon for Christmas, makes me a flannel hot water bottle cover, one of her specialties. And my daughter Bekky, who's also super creative and crafty, always comes up with fabulous silk-screened pieces for me. I can't wait to see what she concocts this time!
There are also a few new books I wouldn't mind receiving, including Anjelica Huston's autobiography, A Story Late, Told, and Lori Goldstein's Style Is Instinct. But if I let my fantasies fly, I've been lusting after Tiffany's large gold Elsa Peretti bone cuff. (I have a medium one in silver that's become a signature piece.) And at $25,300, they're practically giving it away. Santa, are you listening?

Blushing for Beckham

The photo campaign of the David Beckham for H&M body wear line has us feeling a little, well, warm. He models the latest pieces in his ongoing collab with the retailer, including grey merino-wool hoodies, pyjama trousers, boxer shorts and waffle T-shirts in a gym in London. Give them to your man as a gift for both of you. (Sexy British accent optional.) —Tarah Kennedy

Maleficent makeup

M.A.C has announced a collaboration with Disney on an 11-piece makeup collection inspired by 2014's Maleficent, starring Angelina Jolie. The limited-edition collection, available in M.A.C stores in spring, will feature face, eye, lip and nail products based on the film's villainous vixen. —Brooke Halnan

Just wear it

Nike has scored again with its new Metaluxe FuelBand collection, a redesign of the brand's signature athletic bracelet that tracks and measures the wearers' fitness goals. Already a hit with celebrities, the new ultra-sleek FuelBand features a black band with a stainless-steel or rose gold clasp and costs $170 at select Nike retailers. The bracelet is available just in time for you to get a head start on that get-fit resolution for 2014. —B.H.

The style news that got us talking this week

Gunn's a blazing

Tim Gunn has a new runway project in the works and it looks like Heidi Klum won't be involved. In January, Gunn will debut his own fashion reality show on Lifetime, Under the Gunn, with some big-name backup: designer Rachel Roy and Marie Claire's senior fashion editor, Zanna Roberts Rassi, will judge 15 aspiring designers throughout the fashion competition. —B.H.

Rebecca's musical friend

Rebecca Minkoff's collaboration with electronics brand Friends With Benefits is music to our ears. The fashion designer has created a collection of removable holographic caps to glam up Friends's black-and-gold headphones. Available on apple.com and nordstrom.com, the limited-edition headphones retail for $250 (including caps and base frame), with additional caps sold separately for $50. —B.H.

TIP

When pairing a blazer with a long billowy dress, go for a well-fitted style to help create some shape.

why we love it

SILVER SILK

Dazzling metallic silk is a great alternative to sparkly sequins or beading, and the platinum hue gives the staple a glam-rock twist.

GO LONG

The exotic draping and long flowing lines of this tea-length garment play up the crisp tailoring of the blazer.

TRENDY TOPPER

A glimmering jacket provides ample amount of glamour and means the star can keep jewellery to a minimum.

SHOW SOME LEG

The thigh-high slit and dangling-string detail balance out a willowy silhouette, while adding sassy appeal that's still chic.

FLAWLESS FINISH

Classic satin slingback pumps keep the outfit looking elegant and polished.

BY THE COVETEUR

“Long before it was cool to have an arm party, my grandmother wore wrists full of bangles and had rings on almost every finger,” jewellery designer Zoe Chicco told us. “Every time we went to her house, I would dig through her jewellery box and try everything on.” Chicco, a trained metalsmith, has the whole Emily-Schuman-meets-Martha-Stewart approach to design: it’s modern, personalized, homey and warm, the kind of thing you would pin images of on Pinterest.
