Fall in love with soft, touchable hair this Valentine's Day with help from celebrity hairstylist Mark Townsend

BY NATASHA BRUNO

Mark Townsend is one of the most respected hairstylists in Hollywood. He's the longtime creator of the Olsen twins' signature undone waves and was responsible for giving the then-freshly-divorced Reese Witherspoon the eyebrow-grazing bang cut she debuted at the 2007 Golden Globes. "But the most romantic hairstyle I've created was for Mary-Kate Olsen on her wedding day—she didn't change her style for it, and I think that's so important," says Townsend, Dove's resident celebrity hairstylist, who also styles A-listers like Dakota Johnson, Natalie Portman and Jennifer Lawrence. "It was a long braid down the back, but it was very, very loose. It actually wasn't even braided; I used a few hairpins and pieces of leather to hold everything in place. I was so inspired that I just started sculpting." Read on for his secrets to creating equally gorgeous date-night hair.

Clockwise from top: Reese Witherspoon, Elizabeth Olsen, Ali Larter, Hailee Steinfeld, Rachel McAdams, Mark Townsend with Elizabeth Olsen, Kylie Bunbury and Ashley and Mary-Kate Olsen.

Own your natural texture
"When Julia Roberts was dating Benjamin Bratt, she used to come and get her hair blown out because she didn't want him to know she had curly hair. Be yourself! Date night, Valentine's Day, wedding day, all of it. Be yourself."

Put a braid on it
"Adding braids is such an easy way to make an updo look much more complicated and intricate."

Start your updo with a pony
"If you've got the length, put hair into a ponytail first. It will give you more control over everything. You can then loop the tail up and stick hairpins under the elastic. That elastic is going to be your best friend and keep everything in place."

Work in sections to make your updo a success

"There's nothing sexier than an updo that looks like the whole thing would come cascading down if you took out one hairpin. I section the whole front half off first—everything in front of the ears. I then create the updo with the hair at the back, and finish by pulling the front half back. That makes it so much easier."

Don't be the girl who's afraid to touch her hair

"I get that touching might cause frizz, but it's really romantic. Even brushing a bang or curl off your forehead is saying, 'I want to see you, and I want you to see me as well.' The body language of it is so amazing."

TOOL KIT

- 1. Dry shampoo
"Dry shampoo has really replaced hair-spray for hairstyles. Because of its starch and powder, dry shampoo creates friction and gives you so much more grip. I even spray my hairpins with dry shampoo before I use them because it helps lock them into place."
DOVE REFRESH + CARE INVIGORATING DRY SHAMPOO, $8, SHOPPERS DRUG MART
- 2. Coconut oil
"There's nothing better than natural oils for smoothing curls. I don't leave the house without a jar of unrefined coconut oil."
JAX COCO SNAPS COCONUT OIL PACKETS, $14 FOR 24, JAXCOCO.COM
- 3. Diffuser
"I use a diffuser all the time because I like as much natural texture as possible. It was Mary-Kate Olsen who said, 'Can we just diffuse my hair because I don't want it to look blown out, and when you rough-dry, it creates so much frizz.' I didn't have a diffuser so I used a sock! It didn't work at all. The next day I put a diffuser in my kit."

T3 SOFT TOUCH DIFFUSER, $32, BEAUTY-BOUTIQUE.CA

4. New-wave beach spray
"Those beach sprays from 10 years ago contained so much salt—they dried out the hair and felt horrible. Now, there are moisturizers and coconut oil in many beach sprays to give you really touchable texture."
MARC ANTHONY DREAM WAVES BEACH SPRAY, $12, SHOPPERS DRUG MART

5. Multiple brushes
"I have a hairbrush that's just my dry shampoo brush. When you brush it through, the starches and powders absorb the oils. You get a clean surface to work with, but the hair still has the guts and grip you need."
STYLIZE CUSHION WIRE FINISHING BRUSH, $20, SHOPPERS DRUG MART

EPIC ONSCREEN BEAUTY

Take inspiration from the most romantic—and sometimes tragic—onscreen love stories of all time

BY RANI SHEEN

Elizabeth Taylor's Cleopatra may not have had much luck with Caesar or Antony, but her blue shadow and blunt bangs were always there for her.

Scarlett O'Hara (Vivian Leigh) had to choose between Rhett and Ashley in Gone with the Wind but her victory-roll hairdo was the obvious winner.

In Grease, Olivia Newton-John's sweet Sandy triumphs by winning bad boy Danny's heart and achieving epically voluminous curls.

Halfway through Pretty Woman, streetwise sex worker Vivian (Julia Roberts) reveals her auburn curls—and her softer side—to all-biz Prince Charming Richard Gere.

An ultra-delicate Claire Danes sports a beautiful half-up hairdo for teen romance Romeo and Juliet's most breathtaking scenes.

Bond girl by way of NSA agent Jinx (Halle Berry) is rescued often in Die Another Day, but when it comes to her final sword fight and perfectly shaped coif, she needs no help.

As mob wife Elvira, Michelle Pfeiffer coolly deals with the worst kind of gangster behaviour in Scarface, with nary a roll-under-bobbed hair out of place.

As Princess Leia in Star Wars, the late, great Carrie Fisher proved a woman's place is in the resistance and a set of coiled buns will capture the imagination of the entire universe.

We weren't crying, you were crying when Rachel McAdams's soft updo came undone in the rain in The Notebook's epic rowboat scene.

Perfectly sculpted hairstyles and impeccably applied blush (very Chanel Spring 2016) belie the struggles of Chiyo (Zhang Ziyi) in Memoirs of a Geisha.

MODEL MUST-HAVES
Mega-model Candice Swanepoel's favourite things

BY KATHRYN HUDSON

Candice Swanepoel has been one of Forbes's highest-earning models for years. The South Africa native has walked runways for Chanel and Jean Paul Gaultier, appeared on countless magazine covers and has been tapped as the face of Juicy Couture fragrances. While Swanepoel is best known as a long-standing Victoria's Secret Angel, she opted out of this year's show to spend time with her newborn son, Anacã. We caught up with her over the phone from Brazil (her long-time partner is Brazilian model Hermann Nicoli) to ask her about five things she loves.

 "I used to love sleeping in as long as I possibly could! My whole life has changed since having a baby—I have to wake up super early, so my new treat is being able to have a nap in the afternoon."

1. The beach
 "I'm addicted to the beach—we are in Brazil right now. I'm obsessed with protecting my skin from the sun, so I always bring sunscreen, a sarong and a hat. I also bring rackets, because we play a Brazilian version of beach ball, and some music."

"Being a mother is definitely a learning experience and it's all about testing yourself. When you're pregnant you have all these thoughts about what kind of mom you want to be, but now that I'm a mother, I'm learning how nurturing I can be. I was a little nervous to become a mom, but I'm gaining confidence. I've learned that I'm much stronger than I thought I was."

BY CARLY OSTROFF

In just a few years, Kendall Jenner—a 21-year-old model mogul known for her off-duty topknots and vampy red carpet gowns—skyrocketed from reality TV presence to the cover of Vogue, picking up a major beauty contract along the way. Now, she's a fully fledged pop culture icon: "1000+ ideas about Kendall Jenner Eyebrows" is a top category on Pinterest. "It's been really incredible to work with a girl who's at the top of her career right now, and also to be part of her rise," says Estée Lauder makeup pro, Victor Henao, who has worked closely with Jenner since she signed on to work with the beauty company two and a half years ago. The New-York-based makeup artist, whose skills have also been featured in Vogue China and W Magazine, is an expert on creating Jenner's signature smouldering-eyed, neutral-lipped look. Read on to master Jenner's sultry look for your next date night.

The many faces of Kendall Jenner, who plays with variations on her signature beauty look: sultry defined eyes and pale lips.

"A neutral eyeshadow palette, black and brown eyeliner, mascara, liquid eyeliner, bronzer and a nude lipstick are every girl's bucket list Kendall products."—Victor Henao

- 1. Skin Healthy, hydrated skin is key. Henao recommends prepping skin with a repairing serum and moisturizer, which he then tops with a hydrating liquid foundation. Underneath the eyes, he relies on a high-lighting concealer to brighten any dark circles or puffiness.
- 2. Brows Jenner's well-defined brows are a big part of her finished look, so do as Henao does and fill in brows with a pencil right away to frame the face.
- 3. Eyes To define the eye, Henao applies a coffee-coloured liner on upper eyelids, which he smudges out from the lash line so it gets thicker towards the outer corners. "I take a brush and diffuse the pencil to really blend it on the eyelid," explains Henao. Next, he uses a round fluffy brush to apply a medium gold shade from the Pure Color Envy Sculpting EyeShadow 5-Color Palette ovetop

- of the liner. "A signature Kendall thing is to apply the same colour under the eye as well," he says. "Make sure it's super diffused."
- 4. Lashes There's nothing more quintessential to a Jenner-inspired look than dramatic lashes. Henao applies two coats of mascara, then makes them look even more full by following the lash line closely with a black liquid liner.
- 5. Bronzer A glowy flush of colour brings warmth to this smoky look. "With Kendall, we don't do a lot of blush, but I love to use bronzer on her," says Henao. "It's not so much a contour moment, but more of a flush of colour on the cheek."
- 6. Lips "What better way to finish a Kendall look than her favourite lipstick colour?" says Henao. The peachy neutral lipstick named Insatiable Ivory is Jenner's one and only.

- TOOL KIT
- SHADOW PALETTE: ESTÉE LAUDER PURE COLOR ENVY SCULPTING EYESHADOW 5-COLOR PALETTE IN IVORY POWER, $58
  - BROWN LINER: MARCELLE VELVET GEL WATERPROOF EYELINER IN DARK CHOCOLATE, $12

Dry shampoo's next wave takes the popular spray from one-trick pony to serious styling tool

BY JILLIAN VIEIRA

Of all the sights backstage at the splashy Charlotte Olympia Spring 2017 runway show in London—a gaggle of dancers rehearsing, a delectable craft services platter and a giant banana costume (don't ask)—my eyes landed on what can only be described as a treasure chest of beauty gold: hundreds of bottles of Batiste dry shampoo spilling out of an enormous suitcase in the centre of the room. The loot belonged to top hairstylist Sam McKnight and his team, who used the unlikely bounty—not strong-hold hairspray, not mega-volume mousse—to create a modern take on side-swept 1940s waves.

When dry shampoo hit store shelves more than 40 years ago, we gained access to one of the most useful beauty innovations since, well, shampoo itself. And when the category really took off about 10 years ago, greasy roots and limp strands became manageable—no longer a midday crisis. Daily hair-washers became carefree owners of glorious third-day hair. High profile hairstylists like McKnight have since proven that achieving woke-up-looking-like-a-rock-star texture is only a spray and tousle away.

Now, British dry shampoo brand Batiste—it's been the top-selling brand in the U.K. for more than 30 years—is rethinking the possibilities of the product we can't seem to get enough of. This next frontier: Freshly washed hair can also benefit from dry shampoo as a tool to achieve Blake Lively and Beyoncé level volume.

Batiste is betting on the addition of silica, a chemical compound that lets you achieve blowout-worthy body minus the stickiness or stiff hold that a traditional hairspray can leave behind. And there are new ways to use it, too: McKnight suggests dousing a natural bristle hairbrush with dry shampoo, tipping your head upside down and brushing thoroughly. "It gives hair that '70s-inspired fuller texture," he says. The question is, with a better resumé than Jennifer Lawrence, what can't dry shampoo do?

GET THE LOOK

Legendary hairstylist Sam McKnight's guide to creating the Charlotte Olympia runway look inspired by Jean Harlow and Katharine Hepburn:

Step 1: Prep damp hair with dry shampoo to "add grip and hold," then blow-dry until smooth with a large round brush.

Step 2: In small sections, apply heated rollers to the hair at the crown and work your way down until the whole head is complete.

Step 3: Once fully cooled, remove rollers and separate waves with your fingers. Slightly stretch the waves with a blow-dryer to loosen them.

Step 4: Gather hair into three sections and mould each into a faux-bob shape. Spray with volume-boosting dry shampoo to keep the look bouncy and full.

BATISTE DRY SHAMPOO PLUS HEAVENLY VOLUME, $10, SHOPPERS DRUG MART

Fragrance note: Batiste is now approaching scent development like a perfumer. Layered top, heart and base notes (think bergamot, jasmine and vanilla bean) create a complex, extra-fresh fragrance that bolsters the illusion of squeaky-clean hair.

THE KIT LOVES FUSS-FREE ROMANCE

The Kit's executive editor, Kathryn Hudson, falls for easy date dressing

Truth be told, I'm not a dreamy-Valentine's-Day type of woman. Sure, I appreciate a dinner out and relish any opportunity to spend some time with my husband—especially when it doesn't revolve around scheduling errands or daycare pickups. But I am just a little too eye-rolly for traditional romantic gestures and can't imagine the terrifying amounts of free time or organization one would need to procure fancy, pink lingerie—and remember to wear it. But this year, after witnessing Ryan Gosling and Emma Stone's crackling chemistry in La La Land (#oscars2017), I'm hoping to remember that love is lovely and sometimes it's important to make time for a little dancing. Since I'm still me, I'll be picking up a Valentine's Day outfit that includes comfortable menswear-inspired mules, a classic dress fit for fan kicks (but that also won't wrinkle when I travel with it later for a work event) and a few sparkly hairpins I can stash in my bag for hair-in-my-face emergencies.

Plus: a page-turning new novel (by my favourite Canadian author) and a must-listen-to Grammy-nominated album will continue the jazzy mood long after February.

"This great read will keep me thinking about love long after Valentine's Day."

Dear Smashbox Photo Finish Lid Primer: Before we met, I had a complicated—stormy!—relationship with eyeshadow. Once applied, it slipped off my lids like a toddler whooshing down a waterslide. Oh, the cut-eye I cast on my shadow stash. But now, your genius base acts like the sun at high noon: It keeps my shadow firmly in place. Not only that, your sooty-coloured formula also deepens and intensifies the colour, which means I can create a smoky eye in the time it takes to say "Shadow, all is forgiven." You know, if this whole innovative makeup thing doesn't work out, you'd make a rad couples counsellor. Love, Laura deCarufel
