THE CITY SOPHISTICATE: JODI BLACK, TORONTO

While still a high-school student in Nova Scotia, Jodi Black landed a gig as a movie extra and had an epiphany watching the fashion stylist on set: She realized she wanted to work with clothes too. At 18, she moved to Toronto with aspirations of breaking into the fashion industry. Since starting her style blog three years ago, she has earned a fast-growing following for her “classic with an edge” aesthetic.

Which style icons helped shape your own approach? “I really looked up to Victoria Beckham’s strong but feminine look. My other style icons were Mary-Kate and Ashley Olsen! They were everything, and they still are.”

How would you describe your holiday style? “My outfits stay the same—I like a leather skirt with a chunky knit—but I’d add a bit of bling with earrings or rings. If it’s Christmas dinner with my family, I want to look more put together because it’s a special time.”

Who is your favourite person to buy gifts for and why? “My husband, Jose, because he supports me in everything I do—he learned to be a photographer so he could take pictures for my blog! He’s so selfless, so I like to spoil him when possible.”

What is your favourite place to go for holiday cocktails? “I love trying new hot spots with my husband and friends during the holidays. I can’t get enough of the cozy vibes at the Broadview Hotel right now. My favourite cocktail is ‘The French’—anything with bubbles is a must during the holidays.”

What is your favourite place to go for holiday brunch? “There’s nothing better than throwing on a cozy knit and heading to a nearby brunch place during the break because you don’t have to wait in line for two hours to get a good table. The avocado toast with poached eggs at La Palma is so good and their interior is Pinterest goals.”

What is your favourite place to spend a holiday Sunday? “I love vintage shopping along Dundas West on Sundays—there are great little shops to pop into if you need thoughtful last minute gifts. A few of my favourites are You Babe and Chosen Vintage for Levi’s and vintage T-shirts.”

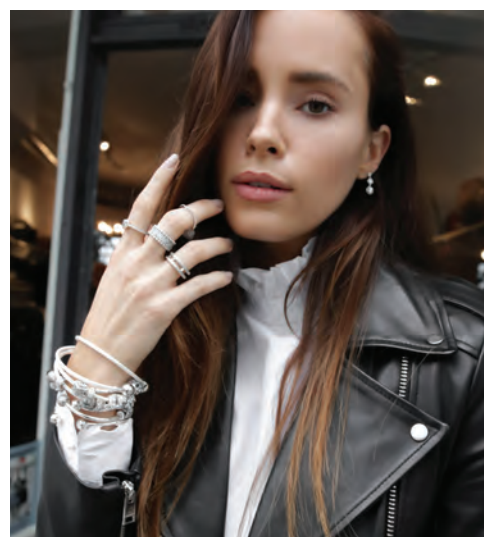

What is your favourite place to unwind over the holidays? “One of my favourite ways to relax is to read so it’s become a bit of an unofficial holiday tradition for my mom and I to buy each other books as gifts. We love picking out things to read and swapping them once we’re done. The Chelsea Shop in Yorkville has the cutest vibe.”

What is your favourite place for a romantic dinner? “When Jose and I want to have a romantic dinner we love to have Italian at Buca in Yorkville because it gives us a reason to dress up and have amazing pizza and wine. Their food transports you to Italy.”

What is your favourite piece of PANDORA Jewellery in your current collection? “I’m loving the Classic Elegance collection, especially the necklace. It’s very elegant and understated and just enough bling for holiday.”

WINK, WINK

What is your top tip for hinting to your partner what you’d like to receive for the holidays? “I’ve done this in years past: If I want something special, I’ll save the picture as a screensaver on my shared laptop. I don’t know how subtle that is!”

PHOTOGRAPHY OF VICTORIA BY PETER TRAN @ THE DUNKLISTT

VICTORIA EXUDES ASPIRATIONAL EURO CHIC WITH A FEMININE FASHION APPROACH EDGED UP WITH COOL JEWELLERY.

WINK, WINK

What is your top tip for hinting to your partner what you'd like to receive for the holidays? "My boyfriend and I are practical, so we do something we call an 'unsurprise surprise.' We put together a list of 10 things we have our eye on, and then slip it to the other person, who can choose from there."

THE ELEGANT ROMANTIC: VICTORIA HUI, TORONTO

An early adopter to digital, Victoria Hui was a beauty blogger back when she was in Grade 7 (back when blogging wasn't yet cool). By high school, she was making beauty YouTube videos. Then she took a slight detour: The Ottawa native studied science at university, but she knew she didn't want to continue on to med school. Instead, she moved to Toronto, got an internship at a digital agency, launched The Lust Listt as a side project—and the rest is stylish history.

How would you describe your style? "It's mainly romantic but ever-evolving. When I think about how I shoot my photos and style my outfits, I like to relate it back to a European or Paris vibe."

What is your favourite jewellery to wear during the holidays? "I love to layer to create a rich, decadent effect, like stacking necklaces of varying lengths together and playing with different chains—for example, a thicker choker with daintier pieces below it."

What is your favourite place to go for holiday cocktails? "The gin sours at Rose and Sons are so deliciously smooth. I could spend all night there."

What is your favourite place to go for holiday brunch? "Baddies because I'm a huge fan of açai smoothie bowls, and Australians totally do coffee justice."

What is your favourite place to go for a romantic holiday dinner? "My partner Peter and I love the intimate setting of Chantecler. It's perfect for date night, and the food is always delicious."

What is your favourite place to spend a holiday Sunday? "Any coffee shop with my BFFs @melhwang and @allure-ofsimplicity, and then exploring Yorkville. Since we're all bloggers, our favourite thing to do together is take photos."

What is your favourite place to unwind over the holidays? "At home with my dog and boyfriend, watching Netflix. I probably sound like such a grandma, but I love curling up on the couch for a good scary movie after a busy day!"

What is your favourite piece of PANDORA Jewellery in your current collection? "I love the Droplets Stackable Ring. It has in-laid gemstones spaced out, which signifies to me that each one is special and unique in itself. It calls out to me."

THE SPORTY STAR: NAVPREET BANGA, VANCOUVER

Today, being a millennial multi-hyphenate is increasingly common, but Navpreet Banga's particular combo—style influencer, hardcore gym buff and YouTube actor/comedienne—is one of a kind. Check out the Vancouverite's Instagram for beauty inspo (her mega lashes and beestung lips) next to clips of her barbell bench presses (pain face and all), then click over to BrownGirlLifts TV to watch her cheeky skits, which often poke fun at her Punjabi heritage. When you're this multi-talented, doing it all is no sweat.

How would you describe your style? "I've never been a girly-girl. Sometimes I throw on a big T-shirt and tuck it into ripped jeans, with Adidas sneakers. Another day, it could be a tight dress and boots. It's always a mix of sporty and comfortable, so I can do anything throughout the day."

What do you love about living in Vancouver? "When you come here, you feel the nature vibe. There are tons of lakes and mountains. No matter what time of year it is, we like to go hiking. It's such a peaceful way to get your workout in."

What is your favourite place to go for holiday cocktails? "The Flying Pig in Gastown. The dim lights and atmosphere are great for having a conversation with a friend."

What is your favourite place to go for holiday brunch? "The line-up for Café Medina is insane, but it has the most amazing hot chocolate. The waffles with their terrific sauces are a must-try!"

What is your favourite place to go for a romantic holiday dinner? "The Roof at Black + Blue. The ambiance is sophisticated, lively and fun! The rooftop decor is what makes it so special, and the food and service are excellent."

What is your favourite place to spend a holiday Sunday? "Stanley Park is beautiful in every way. The scenery and views are a must to experience if you're a tourist."

What is your favourite place to unwind over the holidays? "I love English Bay. It's a great place to view the sunset, with lots of incredible restaurants, so you can grab some food and enjoy the beautiful scenery with friends."

What is your favourite piece of PANDORA Jewellery in your current collection? "The Hearts of PANDORA necklace is very beautiful and stands alone. I love things that are very minimal, but add so much to your look."

WINK, WINK

What is your top tip for hinting to your partner what you'd like to receive for the holidays? "I don't hint—I just tell people! I'm so straight-up, I don't waste my time. When I want something, I just want to engrave it in their mind that I need this."

NAVPREET BANGA EMBODIES ELEVATED ATHLEISURE WITH HITS OF ON-TREND SPARKLE.

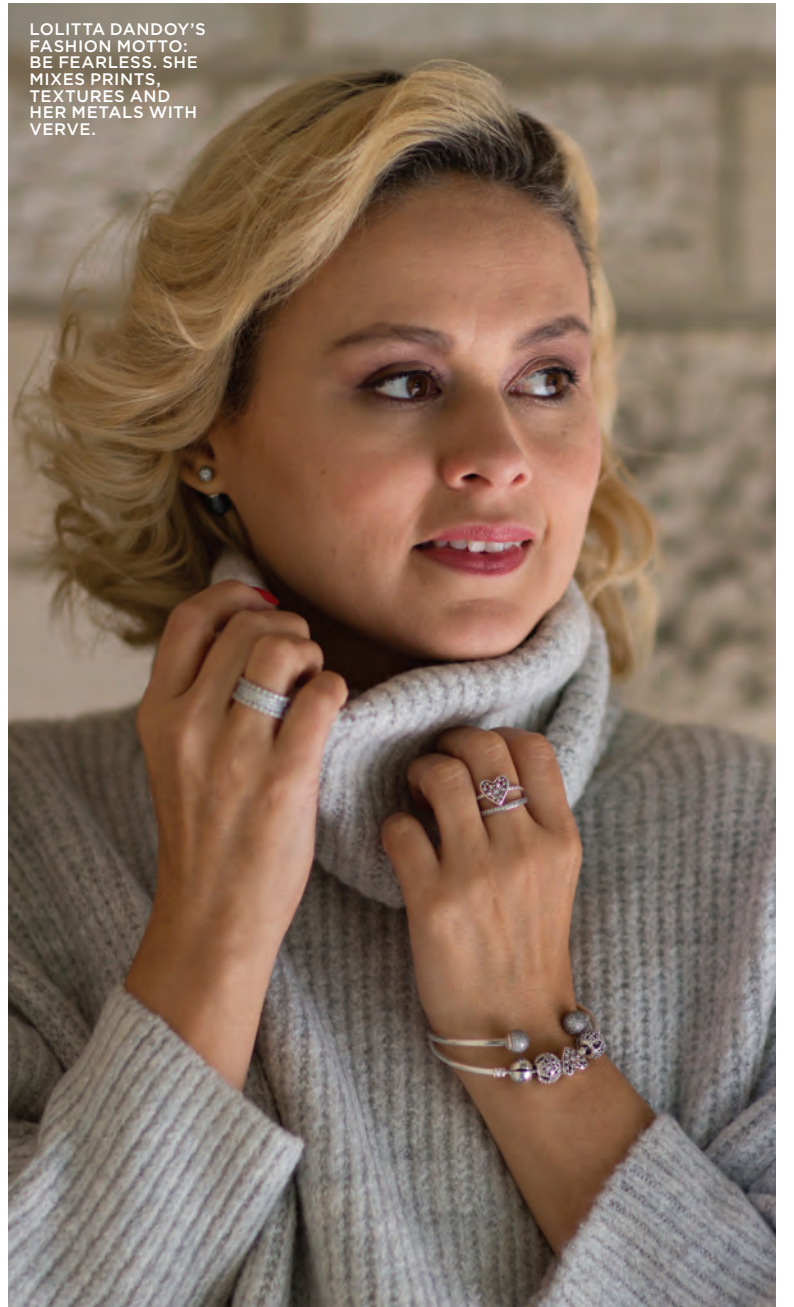

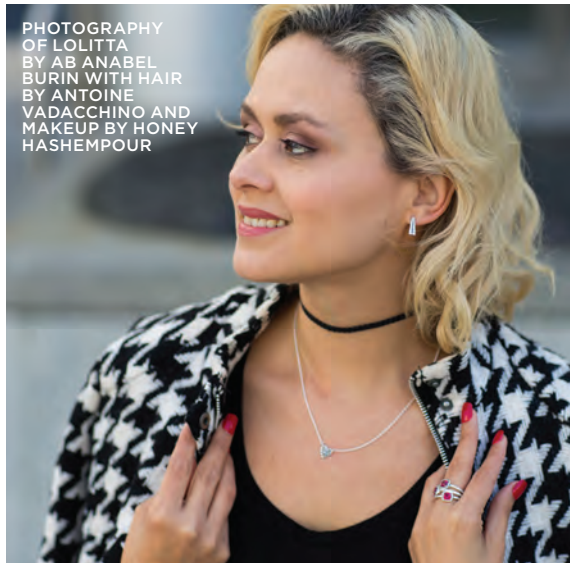

WINK, WINK

What is your top tip for hinting to your partner what you'd like to receive for the holidays?

"I'd suggest mentioning it casually, so the person doesn't feel they have to buy it, but they might pick up on the idea. I did this once at a jewellery store. I kept saying, 'Oh, I've always wanted to have that kind of piece.' It worked!"

PHOTOGRAPHY OF LOLITTA BY AB ANABEL BURIN WITH HAIR BY ANTOINE VADACCHINO AND MAKEUP BY HONEY HASHEMPOUR

LOLITTA DANDOY'S FASHION MOTTO: BE FEARLESS. SHE MIXES PRINTS, TEXTURES AND HER METALS WITH VERVE.

THE FASHION ADVENTRESS: LOLITTA DANDOY, MONTREAL

As a teen growing up in Montreal, Lolitta Dandoy had her heart set on becoming a fashion journalist, so it was a dream come true when she landed a job as an editor at Clin d'œil magazine. From there, she fell in love with writing for online—particularly the instant feedback and conversations with readers. Since then, the award-winning editor has defined her own vision with her blog, Fashion Is Everywhere, where she expresses her eclectic, "try everything" point-of-view.

How would you describe your holiday style? "Very feminine—a lot of sequins, ruffles. I love an opportunity to dress up, and end-of-year parties are always a celebration, so I think it should show in your look."

What is your favourite type of jewellery to wear? "All types. I love a big statement necklace, but I also like more delicate jewellery. It has to make an impact, so if the pieces are smaller, I would stack them—like three rings and lots of bracelets."

What is your favourite place to go for holiday cocktails? "The Cloakroom Bar. It's a speakeasy hidden inside a men's clothing store, so not a lot of people know about it. They don't have an official menu; you tell them what you like, and they make something for you."

What is your favourite place to go for holiday brunch? "Foiegwa in the heart of St-Henri, which is a neighbourhood I love. They make classic brunch dishes, but always with a little twist."

What is your favourite place to go for a romantic holiday dinner? "Ikanos. I love Greek food, and this is an elevated version. They have a special type of oven that cooks the fish perfectly."

What is your favourite place to spend a holiday Sunday? "The Musée des Beaux-Arts is beautiful inside and out. There's a garden and a great boutique for holiday gifts, so it's not just a museum; you can spend a few hours there."

What is your favourite place to unwind over the holidays? "Spa Bota Bota. It's located on a boat in Old Montreal, so you feel like you're in a hidden place that's completely quiet."

What is your favourite piece of PANDORA Jewellery in your current collection? "The Pavé Drops Stud Earrings are beautiful. They're two-sided, with a big stud behind the ear and a smaller stud in front. It has a classic look I can wear every day, but also has a bit of a rock edge."

HINT HINT

Get the gifts you really want this holiday season, with expert hinting tips

Women need to take their wish lists into their own hands. That's the takeaway from a recent global study of 7,000 women which found that over 60 per cent of them believe they need to provide their partner with hints in order to ensure they receive the gift they want. The sweet spot number of hints? Three to four, according to the survey. (Seems like the gents often don't see a hint for what it is: a very specific gift request.) The study's silver lining? When women hinted successfully, 99 per cent of them were delighted with their presents. Dropping the right hint at the right time, then, is essential.

THE FIVE RULES OF HINTING

Maximize your gift-getting this festive season with these expert tips.

START EARLY. Begin your hinting a full month before the big day. Drop at least one hint a week.

TIMING IS KEY. There's no point oohing and aahing by the jewellery counter if your partner is staring at his smart phone. Make sure you have his full attention before you go into action.

PROVIDE REAL-WORLD CONTEXT. Gush about a gift that your friend was given on a recent special occasion, one that just happens to be what you're hoping to receive. Specifics always help.

SUBTLETY IS OVERRATED. If you suspect your significant other of being a little on the clueless side, point out your favourite boutique and say something like, "If you want to get me something nice, I love this store!"

SEND A DIGITAL HINT. PANDORA Jewellery recently launched a new "hint" feature on their eStore (pandora.net). Once a woman finds her gift of choice on the eStore, she selects the "send a hint" option to direct an email, SMS or social media message to her chosen gift giver, accompanied by a personalized message and a link to purchase or to discover the nearest PANDORA Jewellery store. That's about as foolproof as you can get!

PANDORA Jewellery's trend leader Stephen Fairchild on the chicest way to wear jewellery this holiday season

One of the joys of wearing jewellery is that every necklace, ring and earring is a sparkly symbol of self-expression. "PANDORA's attitude is very much 'wear it your way,'" explains Stephen Fairchild, the brand's senior vice-president and chief creative officer. "We create the foundation from which you can create precisely the look you want. PANDORA Jewellery is synonymous with affordable designs with a high level of detail and craftsmanship. This allows you to play with pieces—subtle starting points to bold statements—and use them as tools of empowerment and expression." With that inspiring message in mind, we quizzed Fairchild on top trends, mixing metals tips and how to curate a jewellery wardrobe with style—and soul.

What was your inspiration for the holiday collection? "We looked to the natural world and the sky above to create beautiful new jewellery with stellar elements and radiant jewel tones."

What's the modern way to mix metals? "The beauty of the current trend is that there's no right or wrong way. Once frowned upon, mixing metals is today enjoying resurgence. The contrasts of the metals underscore the beauty of each piece. Facets of femininity meet when PANDORA Rose™ and sterling silver are mixed. The two combine to create a sophisticated vintage look that goes beyond conventions."

What jewellery pieces should every woman own? "For this season, the geometric ring is a must-have foundation piece for any woman. Deriving inspiration from interior design, the shape, substance and graphic form taps into PANDORA's design DNA. The PANDORA Rose™ rings are also versatile pieces that are elevated when stacked together yet equally beautiful worn alone. Also, every woman should own a show-stopping ring and a pair of hoop earrings!"

PANDORA Jewellery is known for its innovation. Which new pieces are you most excited about? "New encased charms are at the fore of innovation. Striking square and button-shaped forms feature a delicate structure of stone-studded sterling silver strands in a snowflake formation that encircles a central faceted stone. As ever, we use responsible production methods to source materials and create our jewellery: We repurpose 14k gold and sterling silver and meticulously craft environmentally friendly stones that perfectly resemble naturally sourced gemstones."

Women sometimes have the idea that jewellery is like "the good dishes"—you only bring it out on special occasions. What are your thoughts on this? "Beautiful jewellery shouldn't be reserved for special occasions; wear it wherever you go, however you want. Each piece is special in its own right. Today's modern woman is more capable of treating herself than ever before. She doesn't need to wait for someone else to do it. She expresses herself through her style and the different pieces that speak to her soul."
